That unsigned letter that was discussed recently with both of you, ~~involving~~ and Bob Engelken and myself remains a major issue. Following our conversation another significant meeting was held in Washington. Attendees at the meeting included Public Relations. Although many people wanted to make the letter public and have meetings with the press, Bob Engelken was able to convince them that the way we had agreed to go is correct but with one addition. That addition is that in our inspection report, which will be made public because ^{the} a new procedure will require it, will specifically state that we got the anonymous letter, that it will identify the issues that we can look into, and that we will say specifically what we found. If you have any further questions, please let me know.
