Statement of Concerns

During a safety meeting on February 27, 1984

questioned his foreman, Leo Herrod, concerning contamination controls applied to tools and equipment and personnel moving between Units 1 and 2.

was directed to prepare a written copy of his questions which were then identified with his employee number.

On February 29, 1984, was called to the Bechtel Superintendent's Office (Mike Cross, Superintendent, Carpenters and Laborers) where contamination controls and provisions for monitoring and air sampling were explained. Said that in later discussions with his co-workers he was told that monitoring and air sampling were not being done.

On March 1, 1984. and another individual were discharged by Bechtel. said that there was a general belief by his co-workers that individuals asking questions were laid-off and that workers were afraid of losing their jobs.

business agent, but that he ad spoken briefly with Tony Hoff, his union's business agent, but that he did not believe that he would pursue the matter further. was informed that he might have redress in this matter through the Department of Labor.
