Dear Sirs:

It is my understanding that the Pacific Gas and Electric is planning to put an atomic power plant at Bodega Bay, California which is approximately 50 air miles from San Francisco, California. I have been under the impression that an atomic power plant was supposed to be built at least 100 air miles from any large city and on a specified amount of acreage.

I would appreciate all the data pertaining to the above subject.

Sincerely,

Gertrude van Steyn, D.O.
