On December 28, 2020, Powertech (USA) Inc. (Powertech), by its undersigned counsel of record, filed a motion to intervene in this proceeding as an interested party and for reasons articulated in its motion. However, the Petitioners (Oglala Sioux Tribe and Aligning for Responsible Mining) note in their response to this filing that no corporate disclosure statement was included in Powertech’s motion. Powertech now submits this statement as an amendment to its motion. As noted in its December 28, 2020 motion, while the Petitioners' Petition for Review was docketed on December 4, 2020, it was not formally served on Powertech until December 9, 2020. Thus, the submission of this amendment is within the timeframe allotted under Court rules of thirty (30) days for filing for intervention status. Powertech also asserts that there is no prejudice to any party as Powertech was an intervenor in the previous iteration of this proceeding and, therefore, qualifies for intervention status here.

As a matter of corporate disclosure, Azarga Uranium Corp. owns one hundred (100) percent of Powertech, which holds the Dewey-Burdock Project. Powertech's ownership interest has not changed in this proceeding from when it was first admitted as an intervenor-respondent in this case. Per Court Rule 15(b):

“A motion to intervene in a case before this court concerning direct review of an agency action will be deemed a motion to intervene in all cases before this court involving the same agency action or order, including later filed cases, unless the moving party specifically states otherwise, and an order granting such motion has the effect of granting intervention in all such cases.”

Therefore, Powertech's reasons for intervention have been vetted and approved in the previous proceeding before this Court and the United States Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) and the United States should be permitted to allow for Powertech counsel to participate in written briefing and oral argument to the extent permissible.

Dated this 8th day of January, 2021.

Respectfully Submitted,
