Ok.

Shea's would be Exec Level Corporate.

Henderson would be some type of Corporate senior manager, but not what I'd call executive level.

For our purposes, both are definitely senior level though, but in corporate.

Subject: question on Sequoyah

Hi Scott,

We are aiming for February 12 or 13 to have the combined panel for the Sequoyah and Watts Bar discrimination cases. We will send you the documents by the 10th.

Just a quick question –

Would Joe Shea's position of VP of Regulatory Affairs be considered executive level corporate manager or mid- or senior- level plant manager? Also, what level would Erin Henderson's position of Director of Corporate Nuclear Licensing be?

Thanks!
Kitty
