Hi Casey,

I agree—this doesn't appear to be a change of control. You can check my math, but it looks like there's not even a "new" combination of owners that could combine to have majority control after the share purchase.

Thanks!
David

Subject: Is this a "Change of Control"?

Hi David,
We received the attached letter from a licensee describing what they called a change of control. Based on my read, it seems like this would not be a change of control, because there isn't a new owner, just one owner with more shares and one owner less. But, I am not a lawyer, so I will defer to you.
Thanks,
