- I. Background
- II. Small Entity Definition
- III. NRC Small Entity Fees

I. Background

The U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) is committed to ensuring that all major rulemakings concerning fees afford small entities the ability to compete in the nuclear energy industry through the licensing and regulation efforts of the NRC. In order to minimize the financial impact on small entities as it relates to competition within the nuclear industry, the NRC has established definitions and size standards based on Small Business Administration regulations (§ 2.810 of Title 10 of the Code of Federal Regulations (10 CFR)) to determine if licensees qualify as small entities for reduced annual fees.

The purpose of this guide is to assist businesses, organizations, educational institutions, and governmental jurisdictions in determining whether they qualify as small entities by providing the qualifying factors that make up the NRC's definition of "small entity," and the small entity fee listing.

II. Small Entity Definition

The NRC defines a "small entity" as follows:

(a) Small business—is a for-profit concern and is a—(1) concern that provides a service or a concern that is not engaged in manufacturing with average gross receipts of $7 million or less over its last 3 completed fiscal years; or (2) manufacturing concern with an average number of 500 or fewer employees based upon employment during each pay period for the preceding 12 calendar months;

(b) Small organization—is a not-for-profit organization which is independently owned and operated and has annual gross receipts of $7 million or less;

(c) Small governmental jurisdiction—is a government of a city, county, town, township, village, school district, or special district with a population of less than 50,000; and

(d) Small educational institution—is one that is—(1) supported by a qualifying small governmental jurisdiction; or (2) not State or publicly supported and has 500 or fewer employees.<sup>1</sup>

The NRC uses size standards to reduce the impact of annual fees on small entities by establishing a licensee's eligibility to qualify for a small entity fee. The NRC standards are based on the Small Business Administration's most current receipts-based size standards and, employee-based size standards for business concerns that are manufacturing entities. Where there is a direct conflict between the Small Business Administration's regulations and NRC's regulations on the subject, NRC's regulations are applicable to NRC licensees. The following guidelines are provided licensees to determine if they qualify as a small entity which are generally based on the Small Business Administration's regulations (13 CFR Part 121).

(1) A small business concern is an independently owned and operated entity which is not considered dominant in its field of operations.

(2) The number of employees means the total number of employees in the parent company, any subsidiaries and/or affiliates, including both foreign and domestic locations (i.e., not solely the number of employees working for the licensee or conducting NRC-licensed activities for the company).

(3) Gross annual receipts include all revenue received or accrued from any source, including receipts of the parent company, any subsidiaries and/or affiliates, and account for both foreign and domestic locations. Receipts include all revenues from sales of products and services, interest, rent, fees, and commissions from whatever sources derived (i.e., not solely receipts from NRC-licensed activities).

<sup>1</sup> An educational institution referred to in the size standards is an entity whose primary function is education, whose programs are accredited by a nationally recognized accrediting agency or association, who is legally authorized to provide a program of organized instruction or study, who provides an educational program for which it awards academic degrees, and whose educational programs are available to the public.

(4) A licensee who is a subsidiary of a large entity, including a foreign entity, does not qualify as a small entity.

III. Small Entity Fees

Licensees should review the table below to determine their small entity classification as defined by NRC regulations and their eligibility to pay the reduced FY 2022 annual fees assessed under 10 CFR Part 171.
