IN RESPONSE REFER TO NRC-2018-000254

Dear :

This is a final response to your Freedom of Information Act/Privacy Act (FOIA/PA) request dated January 2, 2018, in which you requested copies of available records pertaining to an investigation involving fire safety checks performed at Palisades Nuclear Generating Station, located near Covert, Michigan. In particular, an interview transcript and audio between an investigator and a former security worker at Palisades that took place on January 26, 2017, and overall findings from the investigation concerning fire inspections.

Since you have asked for records regarding a specifically named individual without providing satisfactory consent of the named individual, we neither confirm nor deny the existence of such records within the US. Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) pertaining to the person you have named. This response constitutes a denial under FOIA Exemption b(7)(C): disclosure of which could reasonably be expected to constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. The reason for this response is further explained below.

Therefore, the NRC will neither confirm nor deny the existence of records when it receives first or third-party requests under the FOIA for records regarding allegations by a named individual, or records involving other named individuals participating in the investigation, or records on named individuals who are the subject of investigations, except: (1) when the third-party subject of a request has provided the requester with a written, notarized waiver of his or her privacy rights, which in turn is provided to the NRC with regard to the FOIA request; (2) when the NRC is aware of the third-party subject's death, or (3) when the third-party subject has publicly disclosed his or her contacts with the NRC.

This determination may be appealed within 30 days by writing to the FOIA Officer, U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission, Washington, DC 20555-0001. The appeal should clearly state on the envelope, and in the letter, that it is a "FOIA/PA Appeal of an Initial Determination."

RESPONSE TO FREEDOM OF INFORMATION ACT (FOIA) REQUEST

RESPONSE TYPE

INTERIM

PART I.D -- COMMENTS

This response also serves to acknowledge receipt of your eight FOIA requests submitted on . As permitted by the FOIA, 5 U.S.C. 552(a)(6)((B)(iv), and NRC's FOIA regulations, 10 CFR 9.39(e), we have aggregated these eight requests for purposes of assessing fees, as we believe that your requests, all of which were submitted on the same day, and seeking records that involve a clearly-related matter, actually constitute a single request.

Since you have asked for records regarding a specifically named individual without providing a satisfactory waiver of that named individual's privacy interests, we neither confirm nor deny the existence of any such records within the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) pertaining to the person you have named. This response constitutes a denial under FOIA exemption 7(C). The reason for this is explained below.

It is the policy of the NRC to encourage individuals to come forward and identify safety concerns to their employers to the NRC and to protect the identities of individuals, where appropriate and possible, to preclude potential retaliation by employers against individuals raising concerns to the NRC. Only through the consistent application of this masked responses to third-party requests, regardless of whether responsive records do actually exist, can the privacy of those who are in fact mentioned in such files be protected. Therefore, the NRC will neither confirm nor deny the existence of records when it receives third-party requests under the FOIA for records regarding allegations by a named individual or for records on named individuals who are the subject of investigations unless (1) the third-party subject of a request has provided the requester with a written waiver (either under penalty of perjury or notarized) of his or her privacy rights, which in turn is provided to the NRC with regard to the FOIA request; (2) the NRC is made aware of the third-party subject's death, or (3) the third-party subject has publicly disclosed his or her contacts with the NRC.

RESPONSE TYPE INTERIM FINAL

PART I.D -- COMMENTS

On April 3, 2019 you submitted several requests regarding any complaints (allegations) submitted to the NRC by a specifically named individual without providing a satisfactory waiver of that individual's privacy interests. After ascertaining from you that such a waiver would not be forthcoming, we issued our response to those requests on May 8, 2019, asserting exemption 7(C) as a basis for our denial, having determined that we could neither confirm nor deny the existence of any such records within the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) as to do so would constitute an unwarranted invasion of the privacy of the named individual.

Although this request does not specifically name any individual, in light of your previous requests, and any records that the NRC may have in its possession that would be responsive to this request, we have once again determined that we cannot confirm nor deny the existence of any such records, relying on the NRC's policy with respect to allegers (see <https://www.nrc.gov/docs/ML1720/ML17208A272>), and citing again to FOIA exemption 7(C).

RESPONSE TO FREEDOM OF INFORMATION ACT (FOIA) REQUEST

Since items 2, 4, and 5 of your request explicitly ask for certain records compiled and/or generated during OI's investigation 2-2018-023 that pertain to a specifically named individual with respect to whom you have not provided a satisfactory waiver of that named individual's privacy interests, we can neither confirm nor deny the existence of any such records within the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) pertaining to the person you have named. Moreover, even to process any records responsive to items 1 and 3 could be construed as an implicit confirmation that this named individual had some involvement in this investigation. According, this response constitutes a denial under FOIA exemption 7(C). The reason for this is explained below.

It is the policy of the NRC to encourage individuals to come forward and identify safety concerns to their employers to the NRC and to protect the identities of individuals, where appropriate and possible, to preclude potential retaliation by employers against individuals raising concerns to the NRC. Only through the consistent application of this masked responses to third-party requests, regardless of whether responsive records do actually exist, can the privacy of those who are in fact mentioned in such files be protected. Therefore, the NRC will neither confirm nor deny the existence of records when it receives third-party requests under the FOIA for records regarding allegations by a named individual or for records on named individuals who are the subject of investigations unless (1) the third-party subject of a request has provided the requester with a written waiver (either under penalty of perjury or notarized) of his or her privacy rights, which in turn is provided to the NRC with regard to the FOIA request; (2) the NRC is made aware of the third-party subject's death, or (3) the third-party subject has publicly disclosed his or her contacts with the NRC.

Since you have asked for records regarding yourself, while naming an individual without providing satisfactory consent of the named individual, we neither confirm nor deny the existence of such records within the US. Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) pertaining to the person you have named. This response constitutes a denial under FOIA Exemption b(7)(C): disclosure of which could reasonably be expected to constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. The reason for this response is further explained below.

It is the policy of the NRC to encourage individuals to come forward and identify safety concerns to their employers to the NRC and to protect the identities of individuals, where appropriate and possible, to preclude potential retaliation by employers against individuals raising concerns to the NRC. Only through the consistent application of this masked responses to third-party requests, regardless of whether responsive records do actually exist, can the privacy of those who are in fact mentioned in such files be protected. Therefore, the NRC will neither confirm nor deny the existence of records when it receives third-party requests under the FOIA for records regarding allegations by a named individual or for records on named individuals who are the subject of investigations unless (1) the third-party subject of a request has provided the requester with a written waiver (either under penalty of perjury or notarized) of his or her privacy rights, which in turn is provided to the NRC with regard to the FOIA request; (2) the NRC is made aware of the third-party subject's death, or (3) the third-party subject has publicly disclosed his or her contacts with the NRC.
