Denis Brady – Job Duties

Since 2015, Mr. Brady serves as the Chief, Security Management and Operations Branch, Division of Facilities and Security, with overall responsibility for planning, developing, directing, and coordinating all policies and activities of the nationwide facilities security program for the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC). Prior to his current appointment, Mr. Brady served as the program manager and nuclear security inspector supporting the NRC's force-on-force security inspection program.

In his current role, Mr. Brady oversees the NRC security program that provides for and assures the physical protection of NRC staff, classified information and activities, and government equipment and facilities to assure the continuity of activities. He formulates a wide variety of agency-wide operational security policies and techniques which involve buildings and grounds, fire, safety and security equipment and procedures, communications, guard services, access, technical security countermeasures, emergency planning, and coordination with local and Federal law enforcement agencies.

As the chief of the Security Management and Operations Branch, he develops policies, procedures and standards for physical security to safeguard National Security Information, Restricted Data and sensitive unclassified information in the possession of NRC, NRC contractors, and other personnel. Additionally, Mr. Brady acts as the authoritative NRC spokesperson on the implementation of physical security matters and coordinates with other government agencies concerning multi-agency security interests.

The NRC Insider Threat Program is directed and managed by him, and he serves as lead to the NRC's Travel Advisory Group. This group advises agency management of safety, security, and threat-related information to make risk-informed decisions for NRC staff planning for, or currently on official foreign and/or domestic travel.
