COMMENTS: Below  X  Attached _____ None _____

The Advisory Committee on Reactor Safeguards (ACRS) serves a key role in the NRC by providing independent, expert advice on a wide range of technical topics. With the increasing demand for expertise to support licensing applications for light water and non-light water reactor designs and technologies, it is imperative that this committee maintains an appropriate number of highly qualified members. Given the number of anticipated vacancies and the lengthy onboarding time, I approve the recommendation for the ACRS to solicit two new members.
