Latest Edition of NRC Information Digest Now Available Online

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission has published the 2024-2025 edition of its Information Digest, which describes agency responsibilities and activities and provides general information on nuclear-related topics. NUREG-1350, Volume 35, is intended to be an important reference tool, with facts and information about the agency and the nuclear industry presented in an easy-to-use format with visual aids.

"The Information Digest is one of the most important publications from the NRC," said Chairman David A. Wright. "It provides a comprehensive, plain-language, and visually appealing overview of everything the NRC does and why. By making it available online in a digital format, it's easy for the public to access, read, and reference."

The Digest also includes hyperlinks to additional information on major topics, with NRC graphics, figures, maps, and data sets.

The Digest is now on a two-year publication cycle. The next Information Digest with updated data will be published in February 2027.
