Christoper Carroll
Acting Chief Financial Officer
U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission

Dear Christoper Carroll:

I am writing to request a consideration for a fee exemption for a reciprocity license.

I am a self-funded small business start-up that has a radiological materials license in the State of Georgia that is looking to provide our federal, state and local government agencies the ability to utilize live sealed sources to ensure the training they receive is as close to real world as possible.

As you know, 10 CFR 170.11(b), "The commission may grant exemptions from the requirements of this part as it determines are authorized by law and are otherwise in the public interest."

I have been requested to support CBRNE (Chemical, Biological, Radiological, Nuclear, Explosives) contract in the city of Juneua, Alaska where we will be supporting numerous Federal, State and Local agencies attending such as multiple Army and Air National Guard WMD-CST's, FBI, RAP 8, Juneau Police Department, US Coast Guard, NOAA, Border Patrol and Capitol City Fire Department. This list is not all inclusive, but this is just to give you general understanding of the agencies represented.

It is in my understanding that this clearly meets the requirement of the "...public interest" part of 10 CFR 170.11(b). The use of these sealed radiological sources will enhance the capabilities and knowledge of local, state and federal response forces that will protect the public not just in Alaska but also across the nation.

There are only three separate exercises between June and the end of the year with a less than 20 days of work being performed on the reciprocity license. With the application fee being $3800 it is very difficult as a small business start-up to be competitive when I would use less than 12% of the 180 work day yearly allowance that is allowed through a reciprocity license.

I sincerely appreciate your thoughts and consideration to this situation and hope you can see how big of an impact this approval would have not just to my company but also the nations responders to.

If you have any questions please feel free to reach out to me at the number listed at the top of the page.

Sincerely,

Brett Warmack, CEO
