Dear Mr/Ms. Secretary,

I was informed of your plan to set standards to legalize the large-scale release of radioactive waste for recycling. Are you serious? No, thank you. I don't think that any sane person would want to unknowingly (or even knowingly) purchase products made with nuclear waste. The lack of coverage of this issue by the media may allow you to get away with it. And why would CBS (Westinghouse) or NBC (GE) educate people on this issue when they will directly profit from it? Once again, true democracy has been avoided and Corporate America wins, while we all lose. Please, re-think this issue. Think about yourself and your children. Would you want your son or daughter to wear braces made with radioactive waste, for example? I understand that the political pressures are immense with the millions pouring in from the nuclear power and weapons industry. But you must do what is right, and best, for everyone. No dose of radioactive material is acceptable.

Sincerely,

David Seri
