I call on the Nuclear Regulatory Commission to isolate ANY radioactive-contaminated materials. They should not be released for recycling into items that will get into our homes and businesses.

OFFICE ADMINISTRATIVE

To make such releases is sheer insanity. Computer models are not verifiable, cannot predict all of the doses to the public and the environment. "Acceptable" and "reasonable" risks are a fiction. Monitoring for specific types and forms of radioactivity that could get out can be very expensive and tricky to do. We know that accidents happen and hot spots can sneak through. And those who profit from the generation of nuclear wastes are not independent, uninterested third parties - they cannot be trusted to monitor their own wastes.

Thank you for your attention to this very vital concern.
