

John C. Butler Bio Information

John is a Director, Safety Focused Regulation at the Nuclear Energy Institute. He is currently responsible for the direction and coordination of industry activities with the Nuclear Regulatory Commission on the Reactor Oversight Process, Risk-informed revisions of large break LOCA technical requirements and regulatory activities related to PWR Recirculation Sump Performance.

Prior to joining NEI, John worked at Westinghouse where he was involved in a range of activities, including advanced plant licensing, thermal/hydraulic analysis and probabilistic risk assessment.