

John Honcharik

Mr. John Honcharik is a Senior Materials Engineer in the Component Integrity, Performance and Inspection Branch 1 in the Division of Engineering, Office of New Reactors. He is responsible for performing engineering safety evaluation related to materials, welding, inspection and component performance and testing requirements for the AP1000, US EPR and US APWR design certifications and combined operating license applications. Mr. Honcharik joined the NRC in 2002 in the Office of Nuclear Reactor Regulation as a materials engineer. Prior to his career at the NRC, Mr. Honcharik was a materials and welding engineer at Northrop Grumman, Newport News Shipbuilding for 15 years providing support for the design, construction, and refueling of naval reactors on aircraft carriers and submarines. Mr. Honcharik received a BS in metallurgy from Brooklyn Polytechnic University and an MBA from the College of William and Mary.