

John Jolicoeur

Mr. Jolicoeur started working for the NRC in 1988 as a Reactor Safety Engineer after serving in the U.S. Navy as an officer in the submarine force, serving on three submarines, two in the Engineering department and finally as Navigator/Operations Officer. In addition, he served as an Instructor in the Naval Systems Engineering Department at the U.S. Naval Academy. Subsequently, he worked as an Information Technology Engineer in Incident Response Operations until promoted to a Senior Emergency Response Coordinator in the Office of Nuclear Security and Incident Response. From 2003 to 2006, Mr. Jolicoeur worked as a Senior Operations Assistant in the Office of the Executive Director for Operations. In 2006, he came to the Office of Nuclear Regulatory Research where he has held the positions of Chief, Safety Margins Branch and now Chief, New and Advanced Reactors Branch.

Mr. Jolicoeur is a graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy with a B. S. in Engineering Physics. He also holds an M.E. in Nuclear Engineering from the University of Virginia and an M.S. in Management (Management Information Systems specialty) from the University of Maryland University College.