

Tania Martinez Navedo

Tania Martinez Navedo received her B.S. in Electrical Engineering (1999) from the Polytechnic University of Puerto Rico, and her M.S. in Electrical Engineering (2003) from the University of Puerto Rico at Mayaguez. She is currently working towards a Ph.D. in Electrical Engineering at the Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University. She started her professional career in 2003 as an Electrical Engineer at the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission and later joined the Nuclear Regulatory Commission in 2005. At the NRC, she works in the Office of New Reactors, Division of Engineering performing technical reviews of new reactor application in the electrical engineering area.