

J. Samuel Walker

J. Samuel Walker is the historian of the NRC. In that capacity, he has published five books, including Three Mile Island: A Nuclear Crisis in Historical Perspective (University of California Press, 2004). His latest book is The Road to Yucca Mountain: The Development of Radioactive Waste Policy in the United States (University of California Press, 2009), which received the Richard W. Leopold Prize, awarded by the Organization of American Historians for the best book published by a government historian in 2008 and 2009.

